TSDO

Recent events in Brisbane have made developing personal safety skills more important than ever before.

Join the successful graduates of CST's Tactical Self Defence training program.

Have you heard of SKILLS VOUCHERS?

The Federal Government recently dedicated $189 million to improve the work skills of Australians. (You may have noticed the television advertisements). The project is focused toward mature people (over 25 years) who are keen to:

- upgrade their skills;
- return to the workforce;
- change industries or;
- formalise their existing knowledge with an accredited qualification.

Training-1 P/L (Corporate Security Training; CST Business School; CST Industrial) has been awarded a Australian Skills Voucher contract. This means eligible candidates may train with CST at no cost by redeeming their Australian Skills Voucher.

- Chronic staff shortages can now be addressed at no cost.
- Unlock the potential that 'you always knew was there'.
- 100% of the course fee is paid by the Federal Government.

Funded courses include:

- Certificate II in Security Operations $645
- Certificate II in Drilling $995

INDUSTRY NEWS THAT AFFECTS YOU

A very interesting document entitled; Harmonisation of the Private Security Industry written by the Attorney General's Department is available at: <http://www.TheCIE.com.au/securityRIS.html>

-----

An extensive review of the PRS03 Asset Security training package is taking place. Many of the changes are in response to the world wide security environment of the 21st Century. We now have the addition of a specific Counter Terrorism unit at Certificate I level and increased emphasis on Terrorism as a threat within Certificate II and Certificate III units of competency.

Another valuable change is the inclusion of First Aid qualifications from the Health Care training Package. The intention is to raise both the quality of the course and standardise first aid training for security personnel.
